From 2 to 13 December 2024, more than 100 States and International Organisations are presenting to the International Court of Justice their views on obligations of states under international law with respect to climate change. Please join IUCN to discuss these historical proceedings. What have we seen over the last two weeks? What happens next? What can be expected from the court? What might be the impact of the Advisory Opinion and how does it relate to similar opinions from other international courts, in particular the International Tribunal for Law of the Sea (ITLOS) and the Inter American Court for Human Rights (IACtHR).
